
The backpack in place and space

This is the usual environment for a backpack. In a student's room, next to the person's desk where it is waiting for the next morning. Then, it will be filled with books, pens and paper and carried to school.

This is the place that I imagine the backpack in. As big as a house, it stands side by side with the other buildings at this public space. Just like a house, the backpack has different sections in which you can find different things. If you go to a shopping center and look for a specific clothing item for example, you will be directed to a certain floor, whereas with the backpack, you arrange your belongings in it, keeping the smallest item in the smallest pocket.

In the Artivive app, I layered the image of the cut-out backpack over the background of the student's room and I did the same with the background of the skyscrapers and positioned the backpack to be as big as the buildings. Names of pieces in Artivive: "Backpack" and "Backpack in space".
